

Payments from high-income countries to help low-income countries adapt to climate change

