

Derby County's £150m bid for the club was rejected by the club's board, who said they were not in a position to sell the club for that price. The club's board also said they were not in a position to sell the club for that price.

